CENTRAL

October 2017

Presented by: Paul Stoecklein | Documentation Manager | MadCap Software

MadCap Central Elevator Speech

- Central is an application you use on a browser to coordinate your work.
- You can add users and create teams.
- You can create tasks like sticky notes – To Do, In Progress, Complete.
- You can upload Flare projects, and it's super easy to build and publish from there.
- It's especially good for Flare users who don't have the resources to set up their own source control or publish output.

New to Central

- Project Checklists
- Custom Vanity URL Enhancements
- Support for Project Linking

Project Checklist

- Create checklists for work related to your Flare projects
- For example: Topic “To Do,” Product Release
- Can be integrated with Flare files
- See charts showing progress as your work

Vanity URLs

- Previously, only one vanity URL (license)
- Now, vanity URL for target (replaces auto-generated ID)
- Vanity URL on individual builds (lets you have multiple builds per target set to “Live”)
- Private URL for all builds (lets you share output with only people on your license)
- Exclude certain builds from search engines

Project Linking Support

- Global Project Linking
- Runtime Merging
- Multilingual Output
